

Digital Adventure Packet: White Rabbit

Hi Everybody!

Welcome to your Digital Adventure Packet! This packet is DJT's way of involving all theatre students in a way that is creative and free of charge. While we miss you all at camps and in-person classes, we hope packet brings the fun of Davenport Junior Theatre right to your home! This package contains the White Rabbit scene from Alice in Wonderland. This scene will be your inspiration as you complete the design pages also included. These design pages are as follows: a makeup and costume design sheet to imagine how the character looks (be creative! There is no right or wrong way to imagine these characters!), as well as two set design sheets, to decorate the stage however you imagine it. This package also has two more exciting pieces: instructions to make your own White Rabbit pocket watch, and a recipe for Alice's Tea Cakes! So get creative, and please share your concepts with us by posting them to social media using the #DJTAdventurePacket. We are looking forward to seeing your creations!

White Rabbit Scene

Characters:

Alice: A young, head-strong and curious girl lost in Wonderland.

White Rabbit: A frantic, nervous rabbit that assists the King and Queen.

At Rise: A tree is set on stage alone. The sounds of the farm arise. Alice enters sneaking her way to her destination. She arrives at her tree, book in hand.

Alice: Curiouser and curiouser. What use is a book anyway without pictures or conversation? (she yawns). None at all, except to support my dreams. (she lays down) One day, I should like to be queen. And all shall call me Queen Alice. Queen Alice... And I shall be the most esteemed ruler... to ever rule such a wonder... wonder... wonder...

(Alice has begun to drift. A sort of momentary light shift occurs on the stage. The White Rabbit appears. Clearly, he is dismayed that he is late. He checks his pocket watch.)

Rabbit: (as if finishing the word Wonderland) - Land and sea! Oh dear! Oh dear! I shall be too too too late!

(Alice stirs and sees the rabbit.)

Alice: (gasps, she rubs her eyes) Oh my goodness!

Rabbit: Yes, yes, yes, Late indeed! This shall surely be the end of me!

Alice: Oh my goodness again? (rubs her eyes)

Rabbit: One look at me and it shall be "OFFFFFFF with his head." (Rubbing his neck) yeeee...

Alice: Curiouser and curiouser. I have never seen a talking rabbit before. Come to think of it, I have never heard one either. Now I have done both.

Rabbit: IF it were the Queen of Clubs, late would not be an issue, as she has been lost in her own mind since before she left it! But the Queen of Hearts! (rubs neck) Ehhhhhhh...

Alice: I think I shall meet this fellow. (she approaches) Good afternoon.

(Panics at first, but then realizes who he believes Alice to be.)

Rabbit: Why, Mary, Ann, what are you doing out here? Run home this moment, and fetch me a pair of gloves. Quick, now! Come on! Come on! (as he exits behind the tree, jumping into a hole of sorts) Late, late! I am going to be so very very (jumps) laaaaaate!

Alice: (shocked) He mistook me for his housemaid! How surprised he'll be when he finds out who I am! That is - if I can find him. Perhaps - down - heeeeeere!

(Alice has jumped down the hole. A transition occurs. She lands and she is alone in a seemingly dark and lonely place.)

Alice: Well! After such a fall as this, I shall think nothing of tumbling down-stair! I must be somewhere near the center of the earth. And no White Rabbit... Rabbit! Mr. Rabbit! Mr. Rabbit! Alone... what a dark and lonely place this is.

(She suddenly sees a key appear in the dark.)

Alice: Curiouser and curiouser! A key but no -

(She suddenly sees a tiny door appear in the dark.)

Alice: A door! Perhaps this key shall unlock it!

(Alice turns the key in the door. It does indeed open. She peers inside.)

Alice: Oh, what a beautiful and wonderful place!

(In the distance through the door we hear the White Rabbit yelling)

Rabbit: (offstage) Late! Late! So very very late!

Alice: Oh, Mr. Rabbit! Mr. Rabbit, wait! You must help me!

End of excerpt.
